

Dear Wikipedia:

I have always respected Wikipedia and the work you do. It surprises me that Wikipedia would participate in lies and libelous slander. Perhaps you are not aware of the lies you have posted against me. I am writing this letter to show you your errors. I trust you will change your post so we can avoid public exposure of your crime of libelous lies and avoid litigation. Proving libel is difficult but tortious interference of business on the web is NOT a litigation Wikipedia can win.

As we see it, you have interfered with our business to the tune of over 50 million dollars, and with punitive actions we will be suing for 100 million if you do not correct these malicious libelous mendacities. The severity of saying someone has died as a result of using a device, (without any proper collaboration, no worthwhile reference, and no fact checking) provides a guaranteed court decision in our favor. This reprehensible, felonious claim of murder is an example of some homophobia from the mind of a latent homosexual perverted mind. Wikipedia has a long history of allowing biased prejudice to be posted. Saying someone has died as a result of, without any proper valid reference is criminal.

Many people have died while reading Wikipedia, but to say they died as a result of reading Wikipedia without some sort of proof, would be a wrongful malicious criminal act.

This is the wrongful post I am referring to

Desiré Dubounet

Desiré D. Dubounet (born William Nelson 19 June 1951) is an American alternative medicine practitioner currently living in Budapest.^[1] Dubounet's website has made the claims that she invented "quantum medicine," discovered the "Xrroid process, subspace and the trivector field."^[2]

Biography[edit]

Dubounet created the EPFX system in the late 1980s which she claimed could diagnose and eliminate diseases including AIDS and cancer.^[3] Some people chose to use the EPFX system instead of seeking or continuing medical care and some died as a result.^[4] The FDA asked in 1992 that Dubounet stop claiming that the EPFX could diagnose or cure diseases, but she did not and in 1996 was indicted on nine counts of felony fraud.^[1] Dubounet then fled the United States.^{[1][5]} Dubounet is also involved in homeopathic medicine, receiving a patent for her process in 1997.^[6] Despite the felony charges and the FDA charges against the EPFX, more than 10,000 of the devices sold in the United States alone.^[7]

Desiré continues to live in Budapest with her family. She has four children Daniel, Kara, Destiny, and Sterling.

The FDA actions you speak to in your corrupt twisted post simply do not exist. The FDA did not ask Desiré If you read the charges against Desiré in the reference you post, you will see there is absolutely

NO mention or even any implication of wrong doing on the EPFX. You do not quote any reference of how the case against me was dropped in 1996 when federal judge Matsch said in court he saw no crime.

The EPFX, now called the Eductor, is still and has always been legally registered. Your false report that the registration has been removed is a lie. In fact, the FDA has no law and has no ability to rescind a registration. The EPFX now Eductor is fully legally registered and always has been since 1989.

Wikipedia is guilty of Extreme prejudice, malicious slander, and wrongful persecution.

Latent Homosexual Use Wiki to Slander and Lie

See some of the many Examples of Bias in Wikipedia: Homosexuality

1. Wikipedia editors regularly and fiercely alter the use of the terms "he" or "she" in articles regarding cross-dressing/transsexual figures. Male to Female transsexuals are near-universally referred to as "she" while women attempting to pass as men are referred to as "he", despite this usage absolutely incorrect in both scientific and legal senses.
2. When NBA Basketball player Jason Collins announced that he was a homosexual, his Wikipedia biography was altered to say that he was a "faggot." When an editor attempted to change the word to "gay" Wikipedia's anti-vandalism robot changed it back.^{[50][51][52]} An editor replaced his photo with a poster for "Gay N-word".^[53] After the page drew criticism on the Huffington Post, Wikipedia locked the page to editing and the changes have been hidden from public view. The article on the 2012-13 Washington Wizzards season had similar problems.^[54]
3. After an edit war,^[55] Wikipedia changed the Bradley Manning article to Chelsea Manning and gave the article subject female attributes, even though Manning had yet to legal change his name or begin any sex reassignment treatments or therapies.^[56] The article was moved between "Chelsea Manning" and "Bradley Manning" six times in one day as Wikipedia administrators fought among themselves.

In Fifth Grade we were all taught our bodies are made of Atoms. Atoms have Electrons in their outer Shells. Electrons Repel, thus no Atom can Touch any other Atom. You cannot Touch the Chair you are sitting on. A Human body will have over 10 to the 27th electrons. This is more than the number of grains of sand on the Earth. TIMES the number of visible Stars in the Sky. No Human being has ever been able to Directly Perceive our True Energetic Nature. So any Human Conceived Philosophy or Perception is flawed. Our senses can be lied to. Our Perception can be Twisted by Motivation. Our Income can Influence Ideas. As We Think We Are. The Powers of the Mind are Infinite. We can Expand our Consciousness by Reducing the Judgements and in Accepting the Impermanence + Flability of Philosophies.
