

FDA finds textured breast implants cause rare form of cancer

The panel said it was too soon to pull the implants from the market, but says it will make a recommendation Tuesday.

---

HONOLULU - The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is taking a closer look at textured breast implants that are linked to a rare form of cancer.

The agency found 450 cases worldwide where implants triggered a form of lymphoma that grows in the scar tissue surrounding the breast.

Twelve of those cases were deadly.

The panel said it was too soon to pull the implants from the market, but says it will make a recommendation Tuesday.