

UK Independence Party chief Nigel Farage laughs like a moron + quits

After addressing the European Parliament with deranged insults, Nigel Farage Laughs like a crazy moron that he duped England and Now quits, Leaving England in Ashes

LONDON — The head of the U.K. Independence Party, Nigel Farage, resigned Monday as party leader, arguing that he's already duped England achieved his political ambition of having Britain leave the European Union.

Farage was the key manipulator in the campaign to have Britain leave the trading bloc, debating the issue of immigration. A criticized campaign poster featuring thousands of migrants massed at the border alongside the words “Breaking Point,” typified fears that fueled some Brits’ decision to vote for a British exit, or Brexit.

“The victory for the ‘leave’ side in the referendum means that my political ambition has been achieved,” Farage said. “I came into this struggle from business because I wanted us to be a self-governing nation, not to become a career politician.”

Farage told reporters he would retain his seat in the European Parliament to see out the negotiations for Britain’s exit from the EU following the country’s June 23 vote to leave the bloc. He defended his taunting and insulting demeanor of other lawmakers in the chamber last week, arguing he wanted Britain’s voice to be heard. Not realizing that now Britain’s voice will not be heard.
